

WEST ENDERS.

GEN. PILE AND COL BANBURY
IN THE BIG TENT.

A Rousing Republican Meeting—
The Question of the County
Finances and Their Safe Keeping
Discussed in a Business-like Way.

The big tent of the West End Republicans loomed up brightly through the fog last evening, and inside it was warm and comfortable. The bright chandeliers and reflectors lit up a good-sized audience, and many ladies sat in the comfortable chairs in front. A little disciple of Belva Lockwood trotted around with her dog and seemed to pay no attention to the tariff question. The twin boys, Leo and Leo Marden, sat in front and listened attentively to all that was said. The young ones grew up to be good young Republicans.

Saints were fired outside and at times jarred the nerves of the audience. Gen. Pile said that he had heard too many canons to be discomposed by that noise. Republican literature was scattered around that all who might read it would be well paid American labor.

President McFarland, who has never failed at a meeting, called the assemblage to order and introduced Charles E. Day as the chairman of the occasion. He then begged to create as not feeling well.

Secretary Jackson, who was as usual at his desk, and George Shepard made things pleasant for the visitors.

The following list of vice-presidents was read: Judge W. H. Savage of San Diego, H. C. Register, J. L. Moore, G. W. Tubbs, J. F. Hogan, Mr. Wells and Sutherland Hunt.

Chairman Day opened the meeting with a few well-chosen remarks, after which he introduced as the first speaker J. F. Hogan.

Mr. Hogan made one of his characteristic speeches which, if it be needless to say, held the attention of the audience. He then denounced Cleveland and the Democrats as one but he can do it. He derided the renegade Irish who follow the false light of the blatherskite Dennis Kearney, and predicted that all the Irishmen would vote for McFarland. He served his country.

He alighted to Cleveland as a humbug instigator of Queen Victoria, even as to giving.

He spoke of the President's experience as sheriff and hangman, and predicted that the next time he would be sheriff he would be hung "high as the moon."

He evoked much laughter and applause, and the ladies especially were delighted with his eloquence.

Chairman Day then spoke of the need of a strong county government, the managers the county funds, and introduced the man who will do it, Col. Jabez Banbury of Pasadena, the Republican candidate for County Treasurer.

Col. Banbury said that he could not but notice the number of Republicans present at the monthly meetings. On the contrary, at the Democratic meetings he had attended they could be counted on the fingers of his hands. He considered this a good omen, but it had ever been the case that in all movements for progress and reform the leaders always occupied the front ranks. Their influence could not be overestimated.

Col. Banbury said that he was no orator, but would talk to the audience as he would to one of his neighbors and friends. He was avowedly a neutral on the financial issues, the canvass and confine himself to the finances of the county. For 30 years this great banking institution of this city has been the practical treasurer of the county. The formality of electing county treasurers had better be dropped, but in every case the funds of the county had been managed by the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank.

At the first of the year the funds had amounted to $1,100,000 to $1,200,000. Now they had decreased to about $450,000, but by New Year's day the tax would make it to $1,300,000 again. The average throughout the year might be put at $700,000.

This was an immense fund for a bank to control, and he did not believe Mr. Hellman for a moment that any man could manage and for making from it what he could. That was business. But he did think that it should be distributed instead among all the banks, that all might reap a corresponding benefit.

The Republican party, at their last county convention, had declared in favor of the latter policy, and he himself was pledged to it and would carry it out if elected.

His opponent, Mr. Hewitt, had written a letter in which he said that if elected he would divide the deposit between the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank and the other banks in an "equitable manner." What was meant by "equitable"? He gave an illustration of a real-estate syndicate in which one partner puts in $500 and the other the five $100 apiece. How could the rights be apportioned? That is the hitch.

All these funds are placed in one bank it makes the other banks correspondingly short. This makes money tight and incomes the people generally.

The speaker was not asked to speak, but he should carry out the pledges given by his party, and would use his office for the benefit of the public.

Col. Banbury then sat down amid much applause, and then made an extempore speech in financial aspect of the campaign to the audience present. He said it took money to run a campaign, the tent had to be paid for, and they should all turn to and help the West Enders do it. Brothers Reeder and Laddie Mack passed around their hats, and received in $1,100.

After Mr. Day had predicted that New York would go Republican by 60,000 majority, Gen. Pile of Monrovia was introduced, and made the oration of the evening. He spoke with great force and vigor, and his speech was received with a roar of applause and the bangs of the firearms outside.

He did not propose to tell stories nor old political chestnuts. He did not design to raise a laugh, but to impress the judgment and the conscience of his hearers.

The voters who desired to rightfully exercise the privilege of American citizenship should carefully consider three things. First, they should consider the character and conduct of the two great parties, and show who with the party will best serve the interests of the country.

Secondly, they should consider the personnel of the leaders of those parties. This is a matter of deep concern. The man who shall be successful in this campaign will sit in the chair of the great Washington of history, and shall guide the fate of the martyred Lincoln, and shall guide the ship of state on her glorious voyage.

Is this a matter to be lightly considered and decided by flippant jokes? The man elected President for the next four years will wield a power by the size of which that of the Empress of the British Empire is insignificant.

The third question is that of what policy in political economy will be adopted to his personal welfare of the neighbors, and that of the great mass of the American people. To Jericho with the party which does not consider the bearings of such questions on the material welfare of the people.

The speaker then took up each of these three questions separately as applied to the two now pending. He reviewed the records of the two parties at length, and showed that it was the Republicans alone that merited the approval and confidence of the American people.

He concluded with the personnel of the candidates and gave Cleveland a tremendous ringing. He spoke of Thurman in "his bold age and senility," and then picturing the Republican candidates and their utterances, invited the judgment of his auditors between them.

Then he spoke of the policies advocated by the two parties on the tariff question. He pictured the glories of protection and the evils of free trade in vivid and eloquent description. He appealed to the voter as to which of the two policies should command their support and left no doubt in their minds as to the ruin that would ensue on the adoption of the free-trade heresy.

Finally, depicting in a vivid metaphor the candidates and their policies as in a picture on the wall, he closed in an eloquent peroration.

Mr. Manilla, candidate for County Auditor, was introduced, but excused himself on the ground that he had made one speech already.

Another meeting was announced for next Friday night, when other candidates are announced to be present. The meeting was adjourned and the audience went home in the fog.

THE AMERICAN PARTY.

The American party mass-meeting last evening in Armory Hall was called to order by Chairman C. N. Wilson, and the secretary, William S. Lyon, then read a list of vice-presidents.

After a few remarks, the chairman introduced the orator of the evening, Hon. Alfred Daggett, Congressional nominee for the Sixth district. Mr. Daggett claimed that since 1876 the difference in policy between the Republican and Democratic parties had become so infinitesimal as to no longer constitute grounds for a national issue.

He denounced the insincerity of the dominant parties in howling for the amelioration of the condition of the workingmen by fighting for a high or low tariff on the products of labor, and ignoring the flood of cheap imports which constantly pour unrestrained into the country.

He declared it a stigma upon our civilization that in seventeen States aliens owing no allegiance should be permitted to be elected to Congress. In the teeth of this alien vote he thought it impossible to look for any reform of this monstrous evil from either of the two older parties.

Gen. George Gaumer, "The Wealth Nations," then showed the impossibility of statistics, the present lamentable condition, both social and financial, of the laboring classes in manufacturing centers, both rural and urban, throughout the country, and naturalized Americans. In the teeth of this alien vote he thought it impossible to look for any reform of this monstrous evil from either of the two older parties.

He arraigned both parties for haggling and wrangling over the beggarly surplus when several thousand millions of dollars of our surplus property is at the disposal of second-rate foreign invaders, and concluded by appealing to the patriotism and common love of country to unite in preserving our national life, our national domain and our national institutions.

SAND LOT KEARNEY.

He Addresses a Democratic Meeting.

The Democrats must be pretty hard up when they have to press such castles as Dennis Kearney of Sand Lot fame into service and send him out as a stump speaker. Kearney is one of the lowest blowhards in the country, and the Republicans may as well do him the same service.

A few years ago during the workingmen's agitation this ex-San Francisco drayman traveled about the country and made speeches against everything and everybody that opposed him, and abused the Democratic party in a most foul-mouthed manner.

He is a crank of the Dr. McDonald type and was driven out of the Workingmen's party long before that organization went to the wall.

Last night several hundred people gathered under the lew law of the County Jail to listen to a speech from the lips of Kearney under the auspices of the Democratic County Central Committee.

At 8 o'clock Sand Lot came called the meeting to order, and announced that a Mr. Cole would preside. Mr. Cole is a young man with a deep voice, but he declared that he did not feel inclined to make a speech. The crowd called for Kearney, and he came and read quite a lengthy list of vice-president, much to the delight of the audience. Dennis came forward and began his tirade against the Republican party. His speech was quite lengthy, and just about as silly as his old speech. Quite a crowd turned out as the meeting had been advertised, and everything was going on merrily until evening, when Judge Ling put in an appearance, and announced that he would be the speaker of the evening. The crowd took offense at the turn things had taken, and who was to blame? Dennis. He was then told to get out of the tank, and he was removed by the County Central Committee that they should have some good speakers.

The other night a big meeting was advertised by the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, and the chairman of the club of that ward was promised by the County Central Committee that they should have some good speakers.

At 8 o'clock Dennis came forward and began his tirade against the Republicans, and the chairman of the club of that ward was promised by the County Central Committee that they should have some good speakers.

Since Dennis joined the Democratic party he has shaved off his beard and his face is as red and shiny as an old drunk's nose.

He has addressed 42 meetings during the campaign, but he did not what induced him to take to the Democratic stump.

THE SALOON-KEEPERS.

They Hold a Secret Meeting—Will Test the Law.

The saloon-keepers called a meeting for 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in McDonald block, on Main street, for the purpose of taking some steps against the 12 o'clock closing order. The crowd began to gather at the hour fixed, but for some reason the meeting was not called to order until 4 o'clock, when about 20 members of the fraternity filed into a little room and locked themselves in. They flatly refused to admit a Times reporter, and stated that there would be nothing for publication.

Several legal gentlemen were admitted to the room, and after the election of officers, a lengthy opinion was read by one of the attorneys, in which the saloon men were kept in the dark as to what sort of tactics to adopt before the meeting.

The committee then decided to act on the suggestions of the lawyer, and they adjourned to meet at the call of the Chair.

Last night every "all-night" saloon in the city was keenly interested in the proceedings of the meeting, and the saloon-keepers were anxious about the action of the Board of Commissioners. Every license in the city will probably be revoked before a week, as the commission has a perfect right to do so.

FOR EMBRIZZLEMENT.

Embezzlers have had a high old time of it in Los Angeles, and in almost every case they have been allowed to go scot-free, if they could make any kind of a settlement.

Why merchants and business men will allow people of this type to escape punishment is a mystery. But they will do it, when they know perfectly well that by spending a few dollars they might set an example that would keep this class of criminals on their good behavior for a while at least.

Thousands of dollars have been embezzled during the past year, and in every case the embezzler has given a chance to settle up and escape prosecution.

There is now a case in the hands of the police which will serve as a test, if the man who is wanted is caught. About a year ago Ed Stecher began operations in this city. He is a young man and quite good looking, and seemed desirous of earning the reputation of being a dude of the first water.

In this line he did not succeed to any great extent, but he has made for himself a name almost equal to that of a first-class embezzler.

Some months since he went to work for a firm in this city as traveling salesman, and, according to report, he did a rushing business for a while, but he could not exactly honest, and the firm complained to the police for relief.

They claim that the young man has collected about $600 of their money and skipped the country.

Warrants for Stecher's arrest on a charge of embezzlement were taken out, and the detective agent put in jail.

The question of exterminating the notorious cushion scale, which infests city door yards and gardens, was discussed and referred to the Police Commission, as that body only has power to appoint officers to abate the nuisance.

A croup nuisance was reported at the corner of Hawkins and Hansen streets, East and Azusa. The Health Officer was ordered to state it.

The Health Officer was also instructed to inquire into the report that glanders horses are being boiled up and fed to hogs.

After auditing a number of bills the board adjourned.

Inwood—Williams.

Rev. Alfred Wood of Coronado Beach, San Diego, was married to Miss Annie G. Williams, eldest daughter of Dr. M. Hilton Williams, of this city last Tuesday. The marriage took place in Washington Territory, where Miss Williams has been living for the past three years with her brother, Dr. M. Hilton Williams, and his wife, Mrs. Lucy S. Blanchard, the superintendent of the school. The wedding was performed by the Rev. Mr. C. W. McElroy.

After the wedding the couple will remain at Coronado for a few days and then proceed to their new and pleasant home at Coronado.

Off for a Cruise.

Last night at 12 o'clock the yacht Aggie, owned south from San Pedro with a party of gentlemen, who will get as much pleasure out of a few days' trip down the coast as possible. Dan McFarland and Henry T. Hazard and several of their friends made up the party. They will probably return by the middle of next week.

THINGS POLITICAL.

THE LOCAL DEMOCRACY IS ALL TORN UP.

The Saloon Campaign Sadly Interfered with and Whisky Men Recalcitrant—Judge Ling's Unacceptable Tactics a Stab at Judge Sullivan.

The local mossbacks are in a frightful stew. Their county and city managers are thoroughly demoralized, and one blunder follows another in such quick succession that a layman can hardly keep up with them.

The matter of closing the saloons at 12 o'clock has set the whole gang by the ears. It will be remembered that some time ago the Times gave an outline as to how the Gang Gang started a scheme by which they hoped to capture the saloon income of the city.

When the saloon managers of Los Angeles in howling for the high or low tariff on the products of labor, and ignoring the flood of cheap imports which constantly pour unrestrained into the country.

He declared it a stigma upon our civilization that in seventeen States aliens owing no allegiance should be permitted to be elected to Congress.

We are glad to note that the Express at length admits the inefficiency of the public schools. Better late than never.

The New York Tribune very sagely observes that "the Democrats are still engaged in trying to win the last victory in Maine."

The wool-growers of Michigan, regardless of party, are against the Mills Bill. That bill will prove the death warrant of the Democracy.

Some of the New Jersey woolen mills have begun to run on short time. Business has been affected since the passage of the Mills Bill by the House and has forced the mills to their present action.

It is asserted by those who are in a position to know, that New Jersey is the most doubtful State in the Union. But Gov. Foraker has been doing good missionary work in that quarter—work that will be likely to tell in favor of the Republican party in November.

The Tribune had this morning just eight lines of fresh matter about the Pennsylvania railroad disaster, the balance being copied from the Express. THE TIMES published nearly half a column of fresh matter. This is the telegraph service which excites the envy of all the other papers in the city! Oh, pshaw!

The labor vote of the country is drifting toward Harrison. In all industrial centers this political drift is very marked. But still persistent and continuous effort must be kept up by Republicans. Political success will be most vigorously contested for by both parties. There must be no lassitude in endeavor.

"PROF." DEFTY, the celebrated discoverer of the five-hundred-mile-wide silver ledge, which stretches from Santa Catalina to Savannah, Ga., has again been airing his theories on previous metal deposits. It is said that the Board of Trade intend to hire him to bore for natural gas in this city. Mr. Defty may be well up in natural gas, but he knows precious little about gold and silver deposits.

WALTER S. PAYNE, the Prohibition candidate in Ohio for Secretary of State, is to be tried at Dayton by a court-martial of the Sons of Veterans on four charges, to wit: Two for violations of his obligations as a member of the organization, the third for embezzlement, and the fourth for violating the rules of the order in trying to use it to promote his political advancement.

The current this year is strongly toward the Republican party. Thousands of Democrats in every State will quietly vote the Republican ticket, not wanting to draw upon themselves the persecution of their partisan associates. Republican committees should look well to this class of voters. See that the "west-pocket" voters are provided with tickets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Argument was commenced in the United States Circuit Court before Judges Sawyer and Hoffman this afternoon upon the operation of the recent Chinese Exclusion Act, upon certificate-holders and prior residents. Two test cases were selected, in each of which Chinese asked to be released from steamers on writs of habeas corpus. One of the Chinamen held a return certificate, which had been issued by the custom-house authorities in the usual manner, and the other was without a certificate, but claimed to have lived here before, and to have left the country in 1880, prior to the passage of the Restriction Act. Both Chinese arrived here last week, and they base their claim to land upon the fact that the Exclusion Bill was passed after they had left Hong Kong, and while they were upon the sea, and "therefore they had no notice of its passage."

In the first case, that of Chan Ping, United States District Attorney Carey argued that, according to the Chinese, when the Exclusion Act went into effect, Congress had a right to stop immigration, and while the President recognized that Chinese on steamers had equities, the proceedings covered points of law only. Citizens of the United States were entitled to be free of the law from the date of its passage, and the same must apply to foreigners. The Chinaman in the case is a laborer, and therefore prohibited from landing. He was not in jail nor a prisoner, and therefore was not entitled to the writs of habeas corpus applied for. The District Attorney asked for a dismissal of the petition.

Attorney Rindorff for the Chinese argued that no law could be binding until due notice of its passage had been given to every one it might affect. This was the case in point, he contended.

Both counsel were unprepared to discuss the constitutionality of the Exclusion Act, but submitted the case to the Court. The constitutionality of the law will be argued before the court tomorrow morning.

STATE POLITICS.

Hon. William Williams Speaks at Woodland.

WOODLAND, Oct. 12.—[Special.] The best meeting of the campaign was held here last night. Hon. William Williams, the celebrated Indian Republican orator, addressed a mixed audience at the opera-house. He held the audience in close attention for fully two hours, and his masterly treatment of the theories and practical effects of protection won many Democrats from their old love. Mr. Williams's mastery but simple logic and pleasing manner are absolutely unanswerable.

The greatest confidence exists here among Republicans, who believe that they are bound to carry the State upon the tariff question.

SAN FRANCISCO REPUBLICANS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The Republican City and County Convention met this evening and nominated a board of supervisors.

A resolution was adopted leaving to a committee of 25 to be appointed by the chairman of the convention the nominations for supervisor and police judges, justices of the peace and city directors. The committee is empowered to sit during the adjournment of the convention. The names of the committee have not yet been made known by the Chair.

A YOUNG MURDERER.

A Mexican Boy Sentenced to Prison for Life.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Pedro Yannes, the 15-year-old Mexican boy who murdered George Stevenson, the station agent at Glamis, July 15th, was today sentenced to San Quentin for life.

Yannes displayed the utmost unconcern during the trial, which lasted three days, and when the jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree, and fixing the penalty at imprisonment for life, his countenance expressed no emotion or concern whatever, although he is bright and intelligent. The penalty was based on account of his extreme youth. His attorneys gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

A LAND-GRABBER.

Conviction of a Humboldt County Man Before Judge Hoffman.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Charles E. Beach was this afternoon found guilty of subornation of perjury in the United States District Court. Beach is a heavy land-owner of Humboldt county, and for a number of years previous to March, 1888, he is alleged to have paid men in that county $50 each for swearing them that they were going to live on said land, but really for the purpose of surrendering their rights to him, by which means, it is claimed, he had come into possession of a large amount of valuable timber land. Judge Hoffman ordered Beach to appear for sentence November 12th.

Knights of Pythias.

PORTLAND (Or.), Oct. 12.—The Grand Lodge of Oregon Knights of Pythias elected officers today and adjourned to meet at Astoria on the second Tuesday of October, 1889.

FLOOD'S CONDITION.

His Death Again Reported, but He Is Still Living.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Information was received this morning to the effect that the New York Sun publishes a dispatch announcing the death of James C. Flood, in Heidelberg, Germany. James L. Flood, son of the millionaire, stated this morning that he does not credit this report; that the last dispatch to any member of the family here was received yesterday afternoon, and stated that his father was improving.

James L. Flood received a telegram from Heidelberg, Germany, today, stating that there was no noticeable change in the condition of his father, James C. Flood, and that there are still hopes of the patient's recovery.

THE PRIMARY MURDER.

Important Light thrown on the Dark Deed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[By the Associated Press.] Argument was commenced in the United States Circuit Court before Judges Sawyer and Hoffman this afternoon upon the operation of the recent Chinese Exclusion Act, upon certificate-holders and prior residents. Two test cases were selected, in each of which Chinese asked to be released from steamers on writs of habeas corpus. No Liquors by Mail.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—In response to a letter written by Postmaster Bryan of this city to the Postmaster-General at Washington, asking for a modification of section 369 of the Postal Laws and Regulations so as to allow merchants to send through the mails samples of wines when inclosed in sample packages, an answer has been received, that on account of numerous protests from officials of various States that this law would interfere with State laws, it was found necessary to exclude wines and liquors altogether.

Death of a Newspaper Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Pitney Taylor, telegraph editor of the Alta, and who for 30 years has been connected with journalism on this coast, died here today after a long illness, aged 60 years. He was for many years connected with the press of the State of Nevada.

The Merced Fair.

MERCED, Oct. 12.—The first annual fair of the Merced Agricultural and Driving Association opened at the fair grounds today. The racing excited but little interest.

The best race of the day was a one-mile trot best two in three. Buck won the first heat, and Jim Blaine the second and third heats. Best time, 3:00.

An Illegal Sealer Captured.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Capt. Gronberg of the Russian steamer Alexander, which arrived today from the Siberian coast, reports the seizure of the British schooner Aurora by a Russian vessel for illegal sealing. The captured schooner and cargo were taken to Vladivostock.

Oregon Republicans.

PORTLAND (Or.), Oct. 12.—A grand Republican demonstration was held this evening, the most imposing display ever seen here, there being about 400 in line. The streets were lined with arches and transparencies for two miles. Forty thousand people witnessed the parade.

Criminal Carelessness.

PACIFIC JUNCTION (Wash.), Oct. 12.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of H. Forhand, train-dispatcher on the Northern Pacific Railroad at Sprague, charged with criminal carelessness in causing the accident yesterday at Hope, Idaho, whereby three men were killed.

Said by Blaine at Adrian, Mich.

So large does this principle of protection become, and so varied is its application, that no man can say that this man or that man is protected at the expense of his neighbor, because every pursuit, every calling in which man engages comes in for a share of the great beneficial influence which protection gives to a nation situated as the United States is situated.

This nation which most and best looks out for itself is acting not only according to the law of intelligent selfishness, but according to the best law of brotherly love and philanthropic regard for man; for the richer we grow, the stronger we grow, the more powerful we grow, the more we impress ourselves upon the entire world as an exhibition and proof of what intelligent men can do under self-government.

We framed our Government without the protection of kings, and in spite of them. We grew up without the favor of the great in Europe, and in spite of them. We grew up without the patronage of the nations of Europe, and in spite of them, and today we have grown so large that the little nation of 3,000,000 in the struggle of 1776 has become so great, and so grand, and so powerful that it overshadows them all.

The example of this Nation is worth more to struggling nationalities and to suffering humanity throughout the world than anything that it was in the power of the American people to produce. The policy which has done so much for the protection of which has built every nation which has come into contact with us.

What Thurman Loves the Negro.

"Shall we make a Mexico of the land which gave birth to Washington and Jefferson, to Marion and Rutledge, to Jackson and Clay? Shall we make the descendants of the men of '76 slaves of slaves—never to be freed from thrall-dom except through an ordeal of anarchy? Shall we blindly and stupidly, for the gratification of revenge or the prolongation of the power of a party, entail such miseries upon our common country?" I trust not, I believe for I have not yet lost my ancient confidence in the integrity and wisdom of the people.

"Just as firmly as I believe that the negro race is not capable of self-government—and in the light of science, history and experience I certainly do believe that—just so firmly do I believe that the white race is thus capable, and if this be so I cannot expect it to surrender its power or share it with those whom God, for His own wise purposes, has made inferior and incapable."

THE SHOT.

"Nobody touches that which is due to me," is the motto of the protected domestic product.

I suppose that the effect of this tariff taxation is not limited to the consumers of imported articles, but that the same is imposed upon such articles as corespond in increase in price to be laid upon domestic articles of the same kind.

Which is the Free Whisky Party?

The Mills Bill abolishes the tax upon the retailers of whisky; the Senate Tariff Bill doesn't touch the whisky taxes except to remove the impost upon alcohol used in the arts. Which is the "free whisky" party now?

The Reason for It.

It is proposed to name a new comet after Mr. Cleveland. The reason is supposed to be because he has tried to be a statesman and couldn't come it.—Cleveland Leader.

Or because he will be 90,000 miles from the White House March 5th.

We Have Observed It.

You may have observed, perhaps, that the "workingmen" who are talking free trade so loudly are those who work with their jaws and not with their hands.

publican was permitted to meet with them or offer any suggestions while the bill was being framed. More than that, no workingman or manufacturer was permitted to meet with the committee and tell how the proposed reductions would affect the industrial enterprises in which they were engaged. It was a one-sided bill, constructed from one standpoint only—the standpoint of the free traders. How could such a bill be expected to be fair to the business and industrial interests of the country! How could it be expected to be fair to workingmen when not a workingman was permitted to be heard while the bill was being framed. It was conceived in darkness, brought forth by the glimmering ignis fatuus of free trade, and it will lead to certain disaster all who follow its false light.

A Voice from the People.

There are 20 bush factories in Lansingburg, N. Y. They are barely able to get along, and are a fair business under the present tariff. The Mills Bill proposes to reduce it one-third, or 33 per cent. If that were done it would destroy their industries, or compel them to cut wages way down below any point at which Americans would work. So 24 of the 23 manufacturers have prepared and signed the following vigorous "retaliatory message," and they mean business and not bluster:

"We see no other line of action to recommend than to oppose with might and main the reelection for President of the present incumbent, who, although from New York State, heads the hostile forces operating against our industry, under the pretext of reducing the surplus in the United States Treasury, when it is evident it would directly to that end, and greatly benefit the country, too, by advancing instead of reducing the tariff rate upon foreign brushes, so as to adequately protect our home industry in this branch of manufacture, and thus retain our home market for our people instead of surrendering it to foreigners."

Of the 24 signers of the protest, five, seven, and a pose are securing the victory for the specie ruber. The cast-iron chief engineer of the Democratic party, and influential supporters of the Democratic party, enterprise, stand and highly-respected citizens, namely: Owen Dennis, James O'Neill, Reed, William J. O'Brien and John Reilly."

ANOTHER ACCOUNT—THE CAR DITCHED.

RAPID CITY, Oct. 12.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the pay-car on the Black Hills and B. & P. Railroad, near Lead City, today. As the train was making a curve into the Reno Gulch, the engine plunged into a gap in the track made by the removal of two rails. The train had been ditched when three masked men assailed the pay-car.

Passenger, W. A. Ringer, operator of the robbers with Winchester rifle, was shot in the head and escaped.

The robbers and a posse are scouring the country for the specie ruber. The cast-iron chief engineer of the Democratic party, and influential supporters of the Democratic party, enterprise, stand and highly-respected citizens, namely: Owen Dennis, James O'Neill, Reed, William J. O'Brien and John Reilly."

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with so many people now to be afflicted with? No one seems to know. The word malaria was comparatively unknown—today it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases. These maladies are intended to cover what our great fathers called biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the liver, which, in performing its functions, finding it difficult to expel the bile through the gall-bladder, compels it to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, malaria, bilious, fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cure is marvelous.

Fined for Drunkenness—Division of Assets—Marshal Mundell Proves His Innocence—Mexicans Found Guilty—Odds and Ends—Personal Notes and Comments.

PASADENA, Oct. 12.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Runaways are still in vogue. Only three today, but they may increase tomorrow. The usual good luck prevailed, one man escaping death by a miracle, and the other had a very close call. The first fleeing animal belonged to Capt. Ellsworth, who was in the buggy at the time. It seems some part of the vehicle gave way, causing the animal to turn quickly and throw out the Captain, who was pretty well skinned up and bruised. The horse ran south on Fair Oaks, upsetting the buggy and smashing it to pieces. The noble steed was not captured, and is probably still going.

Runaway No. 2 occurred this afternoon. It is simply miraculous that one of the principals in the accident was not killed. A. L. Rood of the Home Steam Laundry was driving down Colorado street, and when near Raymound avenue the driver of a milk wagon caused his horses to make a sharp and quick turn, coming in contact with the pole of the laundry wagon and breaking it off. The horses, badly scared, came down the street at a rapid gait, throwing the driver on the ground. In every previous or safe position behind Hubbard's home. In front of Hubbard & Co. store the horses ran into a wagon belonging to that firm. This checked the animals, allowing their capture. Mr. Rood was plucky and held the lines all the time, doing his best to stop them. Had they gone much further in the position he was he would surely have been killed.

The third runaway did no damage. R. A. Johnson hitched his horse in front of his residence, on Marengo avenue, and by some means the animal broke away, but was soon caught.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

A Worth Institution.

WOMAN'S INDUSTRIAL EXCHANGE, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Your columns have always been generously open to us, and I wish through them, at this time, to make a strong and earnest appeal to the ladies of Los Angeles.

Ladies, can we not enlist your sympathies and interests and secure your patronage for our enterprise in behalf of the scores of suffering, struggling and needy women in our midst? Women who bear heavy burdens, and whom the gaunt specter "want" stares in the face, and who ask not for charity but for work.

To enable us to help them, we ask your cooperation. Surely, your patronage could not be bestowed upon a more worthy object than this.

We want orders for plain sewing, embroidery, dinner favors, Spanish drawn works, decorative works, mending, cooking, jams, jellies, pickles, sauces, catups, wedding, birthday and Christmas gifts, etc., etc.

We have every day with appeals for aid and care. A single woman can help us to make this work of true benevolence an unqualified success. Will you not make the effort to give us the aid we so much need? Without our hands are in a great measure tied, and our sphere of usefulness contracted.

M. F. B. JOSLYN,
Business Manager.

Street Work.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] It becomes my self-imposed duty as a taxpayer to call your attention at this most proper time to the unkempt condition of the side streets throughout the city. We residents well know the very great advantage to be obtained for our city by the influx of eastern visitors, and we also know that such miserable, filthy, unkempt and uncared-for streets as we had last winter will but drive them from our midst.

The graveled streets should be immediately repaired by order of the Council, so that a winter residence by eastern visitors will be repaid by future visits to our beautiful city.

Use your influence to further this most useful project. A TAXPAYER.

Officer Murphy yesterday afternoon found a boy bootblack named Charles. Letter in a car at the rear of the Felton Engine Works, on Alameda street, East Los Angeles, went to the police station for medical treatment. The physician there said the boy was threatened with brain fever. His sickness is believed to have been due to insufficient nourishment. Only 10 cents was found in his pocket. He is said to be without friends.

The Bethany Presbyterian Church intended to build a beautiful church immediately, upon their lots on Edgeware road, west, and Bellevue avenue, but as a certain necessary change of grade of Bellevue avenue, and the cost of the work, if any, if at all, within several months, the congregation has decided to accept other lots situated on Bellevue, east of Edgeware road and east of the Temple-street engine-house offered in exchange by one of their most generous and enthusiastic members, and will begin to build upon the new site at once.
